

ARCC NOTES

NOTES FROM THE ROAD

I love Post-it notes. Love the idea, love the story I've been told of their invention, love the bland yellow physical form of so many of them.

And I love my digital versions. For awhile now my Post-it platform of choice has been Google Keep. Grocery lists, to-dos, reminders, brainstorm, fortune cookie fortunes ... all go in there.

Along with quotations that inspire and my own thinky-thoughts. Here's one: "Notice: I'm happier with my unhappiness when I try to do something about it."

And this, which I've shared before, by Alexander Campbell: "To pray for anything for which we will not take counsel together, for which we will not jointly labor, for which we will not contribute with all our energies and means, is only mocking God and disappointing ourselves."

A proverb said to be African succinctly puts it: "When you pray, move your feet."

Are you unhappy? Can you focus it? Is it about something? Perhaps ... probably ... you might oughta pray about that. And do something. It can't hurt to try.

And let's talk.

What I'm listening to: Mavis Staples again, grateful to God for our pastoral-prophetic sister's voice. Aren't we all looking for "Love and Trust"? (<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=AfBloZCBtil>)

Sunday School June 17

Well, it's been a long, drawn-out conversation ... and the "Conversations That Matter" group just may have lost track of where it is! So, for this Sunday, our reading assignment is through the end of chapter 8 (pg. 137) of Celeste Headlee's We Need to Talk: How to Have Conversations That Matter. She's really getting into the meat of the matter now, about having conversations even when we know we have strong differences of opinion. New conversation partners are welcome to join at any time!

The Middle Room class will discuss Chapter 7 (p. 125) "#TheDifference" in Rice's book, #Gospel: Life, Hope, and Truth for Generation Now.

Dear Friends at ARCC,

Thank you all so much for the gift card presented to me on my last Sunday as Nursery Supervisor. I appreciate your thoughtfulness.
